

Shahar Sadeh

Ladies and gentlemen, it's now my privilege to introduce you to a passionate leader and agent for change...

She is a dedicated educator, serving as a Visiting Scholar at NYU and an adjunct Professor at Columbia University, where she teaches the next generation about sustainability and politics in Israel...

She is a passionate environmentalist, whose research and initiatives focus on how natural resources affect peacemaking in the Middle East along Arab-Israeli borders...

And she is a committed coalition-builder, who has fostered cooperation between Israeli, Jordanian, and Palestinian environmental experts to address shared environmental problems and seize common opportunities.

Ladies and gentlemen, please welcome Environmental Peace-building expert and Columbia University Professor Shahar Sadeh.